Case Study: Wayland Hospital Training Facilities

The Challenge

The key project requirements were to refurbish an existing gatehouse which was to be used as a conference centre and staff training facility. We also needed to construct three apartments for the use of senior doctors. R&S was appointed thanks to our proven track record of work for this client.

The Result

By drawing on our extensive network of contractors and associates, we were able to renovate elements of the building which were in disrepair whilst retaining the original architectural designs. At the end of the project, we were very proud to have been able to fully restore, both internally and externally, a building that had been in dire need of maintenance, and to have reinstated it in all its former glory. Our flexibility and high standards were recognised once again.
